You can see this interaction with magnets or electricity. The Law of Interaction in Nature Nature holds many examples of the law of interaction. The law of interaction is defined by action and reaction. Interactivity in Motion The forces described by Newton's third law are either pushes or pulls resulting from an object's interactions. In fact, most law school final exams are multiple-choice. When you are on the golf course, you swing the club down upon the golf ball. Imagine a car that starts to accelerate quickly at a high rate of speed. There are also distance interactions, in which the interaction happens without direct contact. When the acceleration starts, your body gets pushed backward in the car. The second law, also called the law of momentum, is focused on how an object's movement forward depends on the force acting upon the object. MORE FROM REFERENCE.COM When the action and reaction occur, the ball flies forward in the direction it was hit. A bicycle ride is also an example of the law of interaction. It's even paramount to landing a clerkship position. Using a 5-step approach and interactive exercises, you'll learn to analyze any exam fact pattern and write an A+ answer.
